VOL. XLVIII., No. 5.

NEW YORK, August 3, 1895.

WHOLE No. 1227

D. APPLETON & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

Mrs. Musgrave—and Her Husband.

By RICHARD MARSH. No. 174, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

This impressive and powerful story will not be laid aside until the end is reached. The developments are seen to have the inevitableness of fate leading gradually to a climax of singular intensity.

In Old New England.

The Romance of a Colonial Fireside. By HEZEKIAH BUTTERWORTH, author of "The Patriot Schoolmaster," "In the Boyhood of Lincoln," etc. No. 173, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

The romantic phases of colonial New England life are perhaps better known to Mr. Butterworth than to any other writer of the day, and the richness of his discoveries will delight every reader of this volume. Colonial Boston and Newport and the traditions of King Philip's country live again in these charming pages, which offer a series of vivid pictures of a fascinating time.

In the Year of Jubilee.

By GEORGE GISSING, author of "Eve's Ransom," "Denzil Quarrier," etc. No. 172, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

This novel has been recognized as the masterpiece of an author whose individuality and vigorous talent have earned for him a place among the foremost English writers of fiction. The plot is novel, the characters singularly vivid, and the story possesses an unflagging interest.

"The best novel of the year."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

A Street in Suburbia.

By EDWIN PUGH. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

This is a study of local color like Barrie's "Window in Thrums," and some of the work done by Crockett, Maclaren, and Morrison. The nice observation and abundant sense of humor shown in these pictures of humble life will be certain to meet with appreciation.

An Imaginative Man.

By ROBERT S. HICHENS, author of "The Green Carnation." 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

The subtlety, imaginative quality, and power of psychological analysis shown in this book, which is the author's most ambitious work, will surprise even those who were prompt to recognize the originality and rare talent of his earlier performances. The scene is laid in Egypt, and the vividness and dramatic force of certain scenes are achievements of high distinction. As a study, the book stands by itself; as a story, the interest is constant and absorbing. The power and impressiveness of "An Imaginative Man" are qualities which must be recognized by the reading public.

"Mr. Robert S. Hichens is a master of epigram. The first fiction of this author is attracting much attention. His work is, both in form and spirit, ethical, social, and philosophical."

The Story of the Plants.

By GRANT ALLEN. A new volume in the Library of Useful Stories. Illustrated. 16mo, cloth, 40 cents.

This timely book is a helpful and instructive addition to this successful series. The writer's thorough knowledge of his subject and his ability to express himself in clear and simple language impart a special value to his work.

Handbook of Sanitary Information for Household.

By ROGER S. TRACY, M.D., Sanitary Inspector of the New York City Health Department. New edition. 16mo, cloth, 50 cents.

Dr. Tracy's scientific knowledge and practical experience enable him to treat the subjects of ventilation, drainage, care of contagious diseases, disinfection, food, and water in a manner that will prove of value to every citizen. This book has been fully revised to include the latest discoveries and methods.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will publish at once in their English Readings for Students "Specimens of Narration," edited by W. T. Brewster, of Columbia College. The volume will be divided into four parts, one of which will be entirely devoted to Robert Louis Stevenson.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready "Sentimental Studies, and A Set of Village Tales," by Hubert Crackanthorpe; also, "In Camphor," by Howard C. Christy, a volume of poems, handsomely illustrated and bound in white with appropriate decoration in gold.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. have just ready "Fate at the Door," a novel by Jessie Van Zile Belden; and a new and revised edition of "The Story of a Marriage," by Mrs. Alfred Baldwin, author of "Richard Dare," etc. They have in press "A Wedding, and other stories," a new volume by "Julien Gordon"—Mrs. Cruger.

MATTHEW BENDER, Albany, N. Y., will publish at once the second edition of "Smith on Chattel Mortgages and Conditional Sales"; the third edition of "Jewett's Election Manual for New York State"; and Cummings' and Gilbert's "Excise and Hotel Laws for New York State." He will publish early in September Hall's "Bank Laws."

PRESTON & ROUNDS, Providence, R. I., will publish, by subscription, a limited edition of a work to be entitled "Early Rhode Island Houses—an historical and architectural study," by Norman M. Isham, of Brown University, and Albert F. Brown. Forty characteristic houses are to be treated in a series of full-page plates and a number of plans, sections, and restorations.

A. S. BARNES & Co. have in preparation a volume on "The Signers of the Declaration," by H. Dwight, with fac-similes of their signatures, and a copy of the Declaration and Constitution. They also announce an edition, in four volumes, of the works of the Rev. Dr. John Hall; a volume on "The English Versions of the Bible," by the Rev. Dr. Blackford Condit; and a new edition of their "Popular History of the United States" brought down to 1895.

STONE & KIMBALL have in preparation "The Vailima Letters," a series of letters by Robert Louis Stevenson to Sidney Colvin which form a sort of autobiography of Stevenson during the years of his life in Samoa; a collection of short stories describing life in Italy, Southern California and Colonial New England, by Grace Ellery Channing-Stetson; "Pharais," by Fiona Macleod, a Celtic romance in the Green Tree Library; a novel by William Sharp; and a book of ghost stories by Ralph Adams Cram, entitled "Black Spirits and White."

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS, Ltd., announce an approved translation, by Laura Ensor, of M. Saint-Hilaire's able and scholarly work on "The Buddha and His Religion," which was prepared for their series of Sir John Lubbock's One Hundred Books, and will now be published in separate form. The work opens with an interesting chapter dealing with the proofs or authenticity of Buddhism, reciting the sources whence the religion has been handed down. Then follow a Life of Gautama, an analysis of Buddhist ethics, a critical study of Buddhism, with an account of Buddhism in India twelve centuries after its first propagation by its illustrious founder. To this is added an interesting and detailed narrative of the establishment of Buddhism as a religion in Ceylon, with an account of the modern aggression of Christianity in conflict with both, etc.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Black, J. S. The Christian consciousness, its relation to evolution in morals and in doctrine. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1895. c. 11+244 p. D. cl., $1.25. [2596]

The author places Christian consciousness along with the Bible, the church and the reason in the Christian life as accounting for moral and dogmatic phenomena and also as making God more real to men. He criticises literature bearing on his subject and devotes special attention to Kidd's "Social evolution" and Drummond's "Ascent of man." Addressed especially to Christians who are seeking to reconcile the experience they have attained in spiritual things with the faith of their fathers.

Dix, Gertrude. The girl from the farm. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1895. c. 3-208 p. S. (Keynotes ser.) cl., $1. [2603]

The daughter of the Dean of an old English Cathedral returns home after graduating with high honors at Newham. She longs for congenial work in the reform movements of the day, but sees her duty calls her to assist her almost blind father in his literary work. Just as she has made her sacrifice of personal ambition a nearer duty still meets her in the person of "the girl from the farm." The compatibility of higher education and true womanhood is pointed out in a well-told love-story.

- Gilbert, A. L. Manual of business book-keeping: a new and logical exposition of the science and practice of accounting: for the use of students, bookkeepers and business men. Counting house ed. Milwaukee, Wis., C. N. Caspar, 1895. c. 320 p. 8°, cl., $2.50. (Corr. title.) [2612]
- Guerber, H. A. Contes et légendes; première partie. N. Y., American Book Co., [1895.] c. 2-183 p. D. cl., 60 c. [2613]
Intended as an introduction to general French reading. The stories are told as simply as possible, with much repetition of the same words and idioms, to enable pupils to acquire a large vocabulary almost unconsciously. A vocabulary and a few notes are added for the benefit of such pupils as have missed connecting lessons, but the plan is for oral instruction, chiefly with blackboard illustration.
- Guerber, H. A. Myths of northern lands, narrated with special reference to literature and art. N. Y., American Book Co., 1895. c. 2-319 p. il. D. cl., $1.50. [2614]
A companion to "Myths of Greece and Rome" and "The legends of the Rhine." The myths of northern lands formed the basis of the religious belief and of the first attempts at poetry for Danes, Swedes, Icelanders, Germans, English and French people. Intended especially for libraries and schools. Glossary and complete index.
- Hardy, T. A pair of blue eyes; with etching by H. Macbeth-Raeburn, and a map of Wessex. New ed. N. Y., Harper, 1895. 7+453 p. 8°, cl., $1.50. [2615]

Read before the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences, Arts and Letters, June 8, 1895. The writer is Assistant Professor of Mineralogy and Petrology in the University of Wisconsin. He claims it is the first publication on the subject of the crystallography of Wisconsin minerals.
- Holmes, F. M. Chemists and their wonders: story of the application of chemistry to various arts and manufactures. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 1895. 160 p. il. 16°, (World's wonders ser.) cl., 75 c. [2619]
- Hume, Fergus. The white prior: a family mystery. N. Y., F. Warne & Co., 1895. 4-160 p. S. pap., 40 c. [2620]
According to an old Berkshire legend, the Priory, which had been the home of the Harleys since the reign of Henry VIII., had been in the time of Henry VII. a monastery of Dominican monks; their prior, because of the dress of his order, was called "the white prior." His ghost was said to haunt the priory. The story occurring in the nineteenth century is told by a tutor of the Harleys, who pictures the sensational incidents of his brief stay at the priory and reveals the mystery in the life of the owner.
- Hunt, Rockwell Dennis. The genesis of California's first constitution, (1846-49.) Balt., Md., The Johns Hopkins Press, 1895. c. 3-59 p. O. (Johns Hopkins Univ. studies, 13th ser., no. 8.) pap., 50 c. [2621]
The author is Professor Elect of History and Political Science, University of the Pacific. The vital relations to the whole country of many of the questions involved in local constitution-making have led to this presentation of the subject.
- Huntington, F: Dan. (Bp.) Social problems and the church. Cambridge, Mass., The Church Social Union, 1895. 2+17 p. O. (Publications of the society, ser. A, no. 3.) pap., 10 c. [2622]
The Bishop of Central New York wrote this essay for The Forum in 1890. He holds the church responsible for many of the problems with which its members are struggling, and arraigns it for not taking a more decided stand in bettering the world.
- Illinois. - Kappeler, G: J. Modern American drinks: how to mix and serve all kinds of cups and drinks. N. Y., The Merriam Co., 1895. c. 2-120 p. S. cl., $1. [2626]
The 450 formulas are practical. Specially intended for use in first-class hotels, clubs, buffets and bar-rooms.
- Kellogg, J. H., M.D. The art of massage: its physiological effects and therapeutic applications. Battle Creek, Mich., Modern Medicine Pub. Co., [1895.] c. 10+282 p. il. O. hf. mor., $3. [2627]
The author has summarized and condensed the facts gleaned from knowledge obtained by travel

Sweden, Germany, France and other parts of Europe, from treatises and papers which have appeared during the last twenty years and from his personal experience in the constant employment of from ten to twenty masseurs in the treatment of patients suffering from every variety of chronic ailments. Intended especially for medical students and student nurses. Gives a complete classification of the procedures of massage. The plates are prepared from photographs and the anatomical plates are copies of Bock's famous studies. Index.

Kernahan, Coulson. God and the ant. N. Y., Ward, Lock & Bowden, Ltd., 1895. c. 48 p. S. pap., 25 c. [2628]

In a dream the author has had a vision of the resurrection. First he saw men and women who stood accusing their Creator for the wrongs suffered in life, more especially for calling them to immortality. The language is bold, almost blasphemous, but really voices the questionings of humanity to-day. Later, the author refutes his own wild arguments and points out how futile it is for a finite mind—an ant—to criticize its God. He shows sympathy for human woe and reverence for the God who for His own ends permits it.

King, C. The story of Fort Frayne. N. Y. and Chic., F. Tennyson Neely, [1895.] c. 2-310 p. por. D. cl., $1.25. [2629]

Adapted from the drama of the same name, written by Captain King in collaboration with Evelyn Greenleaf Sutherland and Emma V. Sheridan Fry. The scene is Fort Frayne in Wyoming. A Christmas party at the fort, several disastrous Indian skirmishes, a sad parting, and a happy reunion are the interesting incidents in a novel which presents a picture of frontier army life.

King, Moses, ed. How to see Boston: a trustworthy guide book. Bost., Moses King, [1895.] c. 5-288 p. il. maps and plans, sq. S. (King's handbook.) pap., 25 c. [2630]

This edition is entirely a new book. The street maps and plans are all new and record the latest changes. The illustrations are from latest photographs. The plan contemplates a dozen or more easy half-day routes, on foot or by street-cars, as the book is prepared for the masses. The text was written chiefly by M. F. Sweetser. Full index.

Lean, Mrs. Francis. [formerly Florence Maryat.] At heart a rake. N. Y., Casell Pub. Co., [1895.] c. 2+341 p. D. cl., $1. [2631]

Another "new woman" is introduced in Lady Phyllis Macnaughton. Against her husband's wishes she joins a woman's club where the manners and conversations are decidedly vulgar. She is warm-hearted and is led away to do most unconventional things, generally with good motives. Finally she feels trammelled and leaves her husband. She soon repents, however, and decides that the new woman of club and sporting fame is "at heart a rake."

Leonard, Rev. Delavan L. A hundred years of missions; or, the story of progress since Carey's beginning; introd. by Arthur T. Pierson, D.D. N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls Co., 1895. c. 3+430 p. D. cl., $1.50. [2632]

A book full of dates and references especially intended for the Young People's Societies of America. All Christian missions receive due mention for work accomplished. A good index directs to various features of special denominational work, and to its geographical distribution.

Longmans' "ship" literary readers. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1895. 2+208 p. il. S. cl., 40 c. [2633]

Luff, Arthur P., M.D. Text-book of forensic medicine and toxicology. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1895. 2 v., 12+425; 8+360 p. il. D. cl., $7.50. [2634]

Macnie, J. Elements of geometry, plane and solid; ed. by Emerson E. White. N. Y., American Book Co., [1895.] c. 374 p. D. (White's ser. of mathematics.) cl., $1.25. [2635]

Aims to combine a logical strictness approaching that of Euclid with such improvements in arrangement and notation as are suggested by modern experience. The object is not so much to impart mere knowledge as to train the powers of the mind. Exercises have been selected with a view to their bearing on important principles, and the book is prepared for students of average ability.

Maupassant, Guy de. Messalina's daughter: a Parisian story; from the French, with preface, by Harley Deene. Chic., Jewett & Buchanan, 1895. c. 278 p. T. buckram, 75 c. [2636]

One of Maupassant's novelettes dealing with the delicately and carefully reared daughter of a woman of the highest class who leads a wholly immoral life. These sociological studies are not themes for fiction, and Maupassant in translation is better left unread.

Michigan. Supreme ct. Reports from June 16, to Sept. 25, 1894. W: D. Fuller, st. rep. v. 101. Chic., Callaghan & Co., 1895. c. 30+728 p. O. shp., $3.50. [2637]

Mitchell, W. B. Dollars, or, what? a little common sense applied to silver as money. Chattanooga, Tenn., Dollars, or, What? Pub. Co., [N. Y., The American News Co.,] 1895. c. 128 p. D. pap., 25 c. [2641]

Argument against the free coinage of silver. Intended especially for ordinary readers who are not up in the technique of the controversy and need statements worded in general language.

Montana. The complete codes and statutes in force July 1, 1895, together with the constitution of the U. S. and of the state of Montana, with the amendments thereto, ed. by Wilbur F. Sanders. Helena, Mont., W. F. Sanders, 1895. c. 60+2105 p. O. shp., $10. [2642]

Montgomery, Rev. Hugh. The way out: a solution of the temperance question; with an introd. by Dan. Dorchester, D.D. N. Y., Hunt & Eaton, 1895. c. 2-320 p. D. cl., $1. [2643]

The Rev. Hugh Montgomery is an Irish minister of the New England Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He compares his life to a three legged stool, the legs being temperance, politics and religion. He has made effective use of pulpit, press and platform in these three interests. The opening chapters are autobiographical; the larger part of the volume is made up of addresses, sermons and lectures.

Morrill, W: W., ed. American electrical cases; being a coll. of all the important cases (excepting patent cases) decided in the state and federal courts of the U. S. from 1873 on subjects relating to the telegraph, the telephone, electric light and power, electric railway, and all other practical uses of electricity, with annots. V. 3. 1889-1892. Alb., Matthew Bender, 1895. c. 21+893 p. O. shp., net, $6. [2644]

Muhleman, Maurice L. Monetary systems of the world: a study of present currency systems and statistical information relative to the volume of the world's money; with complete abstracts of various plans proposed for the solution of the currency problem. N. Y., C: H. Nicoll, 1895. c. 198 p. D. cl., $2. [2645]

The compiler of this book is Deputy Assistant Treasurer United States, New York. He has enlarged and included the greater part of his "Money of the United States," bringing the statistics down to date and especially enlarging the account of our State banking systems prior to 1863. The information on the monetary systems of other nations is less exhaustive but is taken from official sources. Attention is also given to international exchanges, the movement of precious metals, the clearing-house systems and the recently proposed national and international measures to improve currency systems.

Murphy, Con. T. The miller of Glanmire: an Irish story. Chic., G: W. Barker, 1895. c. 2-227 p. il. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c. [2646]

The mill of Glanmire on the River Lee, within a few miles of the City of Cork, is the scene of a lively contest between Shamus Roe, son of the miller (and finally owner of the mill), and Tobe O'Keefe, who is, when the story opens, proprietor of the "Sack o' Flour," a wayside inn. The incidents of this quarrel, sensational and tragic, are given, and the evil effects of intemperance are shown.

New York. Amendments of 1895. The code of civil procedure. The code of criminal procedure. The penal code. Mayer's plan for printing the code amendments has been adopted, thus ensuring ease and neatness in detaching the amendments from the pamphlet and attaching them to the codes. N. Scripture, E. W. Thinking, feeling, doing. Meadville, Pa., Flood & Vincent, [The Chautauqua Century Press,] 1895. c. 304 p. il. D. cl., $1.50. [2659]

The writer is director of the Psychological Laboratory in Yale University. This is the first book written in the English language on the "new," or experimental psychology. It has been written expressly for the people, in untechnical English. 209 illustrations serve to make clear the laboratory work done in testing how fast a dog thinks; what we actually see; why the bicycle girl appears so short; shape of the sky; time of thought in school children, etc., etc. Particularly aims to enforce that observation or watching is the fundamental method of all knowledge. Chautauqua prescribed text-book for 1895-96.

Seeböhm, F. Tribal system in Wales: part of an inquiry into the structure and methods of tribal society. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1895. 14+111 p. O. cl., $4. [2660]

Contents: The Christless nations; Missionary possibilities; Woman in the mission field; Missionary polity; New Testament missions; Wayside views.
- *Thompson, Seymour D. Commentaries on the law of private corporations, in 6 v. V. 4. San Francisco, Bancroft-Whitney Co., 1895. c. '94. 39+3233-4465 p. O. shp., $6. [2674]
- *United States. Courts of appeals. Reports, v. 8; cases adjudged for the fourth circuit at June term, 1891, May and Oct. terms, 1892, Feb., May and Oct. terms, 1893, and Feb., May and Oct. terms, 1894. S: A. Blatchford, rep. off. ed. N. Y. and Alb., Banks & Bros., 1895. c. 28+805 p. O. shp., $3.25. [2675]
- Vital statistics of the New England states for 1892; a concise statement of the marriages, divorces, births and deaths in the six New England states, compiled under the direction of the secretaries of the State Boards of Health of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut. Bost., Damrell & Upham, [1895.] c. 59 p. map, O. pap., 40 c. [2676]
No compilation of the vital statistics of Maine was made until 1894, when the first Registration Report of that state for the year 1892 was issued. It has therefore been impracticable heretofore to make a summary of New England as a whole. It is now proposed to issue this summary at intervals of five years, the second issue to embrace the statistics of 1895.
- Walford, Mrs. Lucy Bethia. Ploughed, and other stories. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1894. 6+288 p. D. (Longmans' paper lib., no. 9.) pap., 50 c. [2677]
The author of "The baby's grandmother" draws in "Ploughed" the picture of a young scion of an ancient house who has been "ploughed"—left behind in the Oxford examinations by his own fault. The remaining stories are entitled "An Eastern cadet," "Only a pocket-handkerchief," and "Until seven times?"
- Webster's Academic dictionary: a dictionary of the English language; with an appendix cont. various useful tables; abridged from "Webster's International dictionary." N. Y., American Book Co., [1895.] c. '85. 31+704 p. il. O. hf. leath., $1.50. [2678]
"Webster's Academic dictionary" appeared in 1867 abridged from the old dictionary; now it is an entirely new book abridged from the "International dictionary." The alterations consist chiefly in the increase of the amount of matter, the improvements in typography, the method of indicating pronunciation, and the use of new and better illustrations (the number has been increased from 350 to over 800). In the appendix much space has been saved by consolidating into one the various pronouncing vocabularies of proper names. The lists of abbreviations, foreign quotations and mythological personages have been enlarged.
- Westall, W: Sons of Belial. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1895.] c. 2+294 p. D. cl., $1. [2679]
After a temperance orator had visited Whitebrook, England, his converts called an inn, until then named "Sons of harmony," "Sons of Belial," and generally identified its proprietor with that demon. The story of a scape-grace relation of this man is the material of the novel.
- *Wisconsin. The laws passed at the biennial session of the legislature of 1895, together with the joint resolutions and memorials, [etc.] with index of session laws since 1878. Madison, Democrat Pr. Co., 1895. no c. 812+169 p. O. hf. shp., $2.50. [2680]

BUSINESS NOTES.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.—An assignment has been made by the firm of Slason & Russell, booksellers, at 354 Main Street. It followed an attachment placed on the store in behalf of Cornelia J. Knowles, Franklin P. Stillman and Henrietta S. Johnson to recover $600 for rent. It is thought the firm's assets are nearly sufficient to liquidate all claims in full.

GIRARD, KAN.—L. H. Cushenberrp & Co., booksellers, have sold out their stock of drugs.

GOSHEN, N. Y.—Mrs. H. B. Levy, has disposed of her stock of stationery, etc., and has retired from business.

GREAT FALLS, MONT.—A suit of $2500 has been brought against R. M. Calkins, bookseller.

GREENACRE INN (ELIOT), N. H.—A general book and stationery store has been established here.

GREENVILLE, O.—John A. Jobus, bookseller, has sold out.

HARBOR SPRINGS, MICH.—H. J. Atkinson, bookseller, of Michigamme, is removing his stock to this place.

MOLINE, ILL.—The Kingsbury Book Store has been closed on a distress warrant in favor of P. L. McKinnie for rent due him to the amount of $150.

MONTPELIER, IND.—T. Mason Lincoln has succeeded Maddox & Lincoln, booksellers.

NASHVILLE, TENN.—Chas. E. Griffith has been admitted to the firm of T. H. Hard & Co., booksellers.

NEWBURGH, N. Y.—A. S. Wood goes out of the book business, in which he has been since 1878, to become the proprietor of the tug-boats, Field and Davis, while Capt. J. H. Horton, who owned the boats, has taken possession of the store. Captain Horton, recognizing the necessity for having a competent partner, has associated with him Thomas M. Pope, who for twelve years has been connected with N. S. Smith in the same line of business. The firm is Horton & Pope.

NEW YORK CITY.—A fire in the building at 122 Nassau Street, on the evening of the 19th ult., damaged the stock of Henry Miller to the extent of $3000, and that of The Goodenough & Woglom Co. $1500. Mr. Miller has during last month been the victim of a series of visitations. Early in July the tenant on the top floor left open a faucet. The ceiling falling in caused the police, when they heard the noise, to suspect burglary; they broke into the building and discovered the water running out of the open faucet. His stock was damaged to the extent of about $1000, for which he held the occupants of the top floor responsible. He turned over the damaged goods to them and had a board ceiling put up. The next day, after the debris was cleared away, the fire above referred to broke out on the top floor and seriously damaged his stock. Mr. Miller must have dry stock, indeed, to require so much "soaking" in one month.

OKLAHOMA, OKLA. TER.—J. W. Nicely, bookseller, has retired from business.

PARK CITY, UTAH.—Woodruff Bros., booksellers, have given a real estate mortgage for $5800.

PEORIA, ILL.—The Klotz Book and Stationery Co. has been incorporated; capital stock, $2500. Incorporators: Charles A. Klotz, W. P. Walker, and Samuel Taylor.

ROCK FALLS, ILL.—G. A. Howe, bookseller, formerly of Sterling, has removed to this place.

SEDALIA, MO.—W. H. Ramsey, bookseller, has sold out to Morton & West.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.—Willey Company, publishers, have given a chattel mortgage for $500.

STANBERRY, MO.—L. M. Hall has purchased an interest in the Stanberry Book Store.

PICK-UPS.

THE LAST RESORT.—Minnie: "Is it very dull here?" May: "Dull! I have read two books."—Puck.

Two neat phrases are flitting about the literary world. The first is due to Mr. Zangwill, who lately spoke of a number of contemporaneous writers as "falling into the seer and Yellow Book." The second is attributed by an essayist in Blackwood's to an anonymous and probably imaginary friend who classified decadent literature as of three kinds—"erotic, neurotic, and tommyrotic."

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

AUGUST 3, 1895.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

SOME LESSONS IN REFORM.—I.

It is not so strange, perhaps, as it would seem to appear to some, that both the English and American book-trade organizations in laying out their programmes for reform should have had their eyes on the German book-trade organization and its machinery for enforcing order among its membership. Unquestionably the German Börsenverein is an admirable institution, nicely fitted to the circumstance and conditions peculiar to the German book trade and its constituency, and viewed from this distance no doubt presents an altogether seductive picture, and one which might offer some temptation for imitation. But one might as well attempt to raise a date palm in one's backyard in New York City. In the first place, the soil isn't favorable; in the second place, everything else being equal, it would take generations before the tree could grow up and bear fruit.

The Börsenverein though a trifle less than a hundred years old is really the slow growth of four hundred years. Notwithstanding this fact it was not till 1887, when the very foundations of the publishing trade were threatened, that the heads of the association took the retailer by the throat, forced him into line, and, with an iron hand, have held him in that position since. It was, plainly speaking, a repressive measure, however helpful and salutary it may have proven itself, that would have been submitted to nowhere outside of Germany and Russia. Everything was in favor of the leaders of the movement, the very laws of the country sustaining them in their methods.

The book trade in Germany is built up along distinctive lines, and is divided into two clearly defined classes—the publisher and the bookseller. Neither competes with the other in his recognized sphere. The publisher devotes his exclusive attention to the manufacture of books and the supply of them to the bookseller; the bookseller deals only in books and attends to the distribution of them among individual book-buyers, the libraries and public institutions generally. Hence, the publisher in Germany depends upon the booksellers to a greater extent than he does elsewhere, and therefore has also a greater interest in creating, developing and protecting this distributing system. According to the latest directory of the German book trade, the official "Addressbuch," there were upwards of 6000 members of the Börsenverein, of which possibly fifty per cent. are dealers in books only. As every bookseller who has a standing in this organization receives at stated periods—fortnightly, weekly, monthly, as the case may be—on sale or for examination the new books in his line,* the publisher may feel reasonably assured that the public he wishes to reach will be kept informed as to his new books without any further efforts on his part. His part of the work has been completed when the book has been made, advertised in the Börsenblatt, and distributed through the recognized agents in Leipzig to their clients the booksellers.† The bookseller is then ex-

* This does not imply, as it might seem, that the publisher is obliged to print in excess of any possible demand. On the contrary, he is almost accurately informed as to the number of dealers who want certain kinds of books, and he knows approximately the distributing power of each dealer with whom he has accounts. He knows, for instance, that A wants only works on agriculture, domestic economy and popular medicine, and that any new book in these departments may be sent to him for examination; while B deals almost exclusively in light literature and illustrated works. He also knows that A rarely overruns his orders for 25 copies, and that B invariably disposes of about 200 copies of the latest novel of certain of the authors on his list. A German publisher with these fairly reliable statistics at hand assumes perhaps less risk than publishers do elsewhere; though even fortified with these statistics his best-laid plans may, and, as a matter of fact do, "gang aft a-gley."

† The commercial traveller, for instance, is practically unknown to the provincial bookseller. The "drummer" who is welcomed and received kindly by our country booksellers is abhorred and detested among his clients (if he has any), so that there is hardly a reputable publisher in Germany who employs travellers in the same sense that American and English publishers do.

pected to make propaganda for the new books by the arts which qualify him to become a bookseller. Thus, with comparative simplicity, the trade in books is continued on the lines on which it was established ages ago. The only serious disturbing factor that the society has has to contend against has been the discount nuisance. So long as the organization was weak it was impossible to cope with it. With the patience and long-suffering peculiar to the Teutonic race, the leaders waited and plodded to attain their object that every bookseller should in time recognize the advantage of becoming a member of the Börsenverein. In the meantime there were shaped and passed certain laws to protect the publisher and bookseller in their rights. At last the moment came when it was thought safe to enforce the rules against indiscriminate underselling, and in 1887 the first move was made, although against strong opposition. In the first year four hundred offenders were excommunicated; at least, that is what expulsion from the Börsenverein amounted to. The offender was treated as a leper. He could not obtain books from either publisher or agent. All privileges of the Börsenverein—and they are many—were refused him. He stood alone and helpless, and it is small wonder that in short time he pleaded peccavi and returned to the fold, cured and forgiven. In the few cases in which a publisher transgressed, the whole trade promptly refused to handle his books. As the German people are as yet, as a rule, conventional and trammelled by caste and class considerations which prompt them to go to a bookseller for books, to a shoemaker for shoes, and to a butcher for a ham, the recalcitrant publisher found it easier to repent than to create a new market for his wares.

In less than ten years the number of offenders dwindled to an insignificant two or three, and the movement is considered a success. For how long a time it will endure remains to be seen. These, in short, are a few of the facts that seem to us necessary to a proper understanding of the strength and, for that matter, the weakness, from an American point of view, of the German book-trade organization. The lessons which it may teach to the American book trade we will attempt to point out in another issue.

To avoid some of the misunderstandings of former years we beg the trade to remember that only those who order and pay before publication are entitled to the $1.50 rate for the "Trade List Annual." We expect the new volume to be ready about the 15th inst., and remind those who have not yet filed their order with remittance to do so at once.

HOW THE GERMAN BOOK TRADE PROTECTS ITSELF.*

... I SHALL explain to you only the ultimate rules and regulations of the Börsenverein which were settled and agreed upon in 1887, when, after sixty-two years, a new aspect of affairs had been created and the organization had become so powerful that it was able to lay down rules and regulations from which it is now unsafe and practically impossible for any bookseller to depart. As every bookseller has a voice in the making of these rules, and as it is the first and foremost object of the committee to take into consideration the interests of what I shall always look upon as the noblest business in the world, the rules laid down are such that they do not in any way oppressively interfere with the freedom of contract and personal liberty, which are so essential to the healthy development of a profitable trade.

It is generally laid down as the purpose of the Börsenverein that it shall devote its attention to the benefit of the German book trade irrespective of personal interests, both as regards its internal organization and its relations to foreign book trades as well as to all allied trades, and the general public. It divides its activity under four heads.

There is the maintenance of the various establishments which serve for meeting purposes—for business transacted in Leipzig, and for the settlement of all annual accounts.

Then there is the drawing up of the rules according to which the book trade generally shall be carried on, both with regard to the minimum discount that the bookseller is entitled to from the publisher, and the maximum discount that the bookseller is to accord to his customer.

Thirdly, you have the Benevolent Society, for the benefit of the aged, the disabled, and also the widows and orphans of all who are connected with the book trade.

And lastly, there is a special branch devoted to the encouragement of sub-organizations among local booksellers in every important town or district, all of which have to pledge themselves to maintain in principle the rules and regulations of the Börsenverein, but who among themselves adapt them in such a way as the particular clientele of their locality demands. This, you see, is a sort of local government under the general authority of the home parliament.

The conditions of membership of the Börsenverein are personal integrity, proof that the candidate seeking admission is genuinely and professionally engaged in the book trade, either as principal, partner, or responsible manager of the business; and lastly, the undertaking to submit unconditionally to the rules and regulations of the Börsenverein, and to abide by the decisions arrived at by the committee in general meeting.

The entrance fee is 30s. and the annual subscription, 6s. The membership is personal and not connected with the firm.

The headquarters of the Börsenverein are located in the "Buchhändlerhaus"—a magnificent palatial building. It consists of a large assembly hall, and a number of smaller offices and apartments, and being the rendezvous—at least during the Easter Fair—of nearly every bookseller in the Empire, has assumed almost the aspect of a club-house.

A number of clerks, under the general supervision of a responsible secretary, are engaged in the offices of the Association, in continual correspondence with the three thousand members, and also in the compilation of the Börsenblatt der Deutschen Buchhändler, a daily paper devoted entirely to the interests of the German book trade, which contains all the official announcements of the committee with regard to rules to be observed, as well as notices of forthcoming meetings. It also contains a daily list of all books, pamphlets, papers, music, maps, published in Germany; a weekly list of foreign publications—English, French, Italian, Scandinavian, Russian—and, from time to time, lists of the smaller literatures and less accessible books. There are also occasional papers relating to matters concerning the book trade generally; not only to the bookseller's business, but to the publisher's business, and even to the allied trades, such as paper-making and printing. The Börsenblatt is open to every member of the Börsenverein for any communication he may see fit to address to it.

When in 1887 the rules and regulations which had been made from time to time were codified, one of the first and most important steps taken was the one with reference to discounts.

Before 1887, the discount system had made such ravages in the ranks of discount booksellers that its abolition or continuance became a matter of life or death. It was apparent that the self-respecting members of the trade must either combine and put down the abuses or submit to a greedy and improvident majority and be crushed to the wall.

Now, the discount bookseller in Germany went one better, even, than the discount bookseller in England has gone up to the present moment, and he was supported through thick and thin for many years by unsuccessful publishers, whose wares he bought by the ton. These he catalogued monthly on a vilely printed quarto sheet, sending out millions of copies to every house throughout the Empire. The expense of this, through the very low postage charged in Germany for printed matter, was inconsiderable. The advertisement was enormous, backed up as it was by special announcements in newspapers, and the ultimate result was that tremendous quantities of vilely printed editions of the German classics—of Schiller and Goethe, for instance, as well as of Shakespeare, who is nearly a German classic in Germany—were sold at prices far below even the cost of manufacture, finding their way into the glazed bookcases of the German middle-classes and developing into an eyesore for many an innocent household of to-day. This was not business, was not profitable. I need hardly tell you so. The worst of it was that for the time being it exhausted the largest part of the book purchasing power of the public.

Thereby it became detrimental to the ordinary, honest, straightforward book trade, detrimental to the publisher—how could his wares compete with this rubbish of half a century, which was shot on the market in such a way?—and it was starvation to authors, who were obliged to have their books published at absurdly low prices if they were to find any readers at all. Conceive also the feeling of distrust on the part of the public when they found these men cutting one another's throats—so that a book which had cost two thalers on Monday was worth only one thaler on Tuesday.

Naturally, there were only a few real booksellers—if I may so call those who were booksellers only in that they sold books, but who had as little knowledge as the gentleman in "pearlies," who displays his wares on a coster's cart in Farringdon Road—who would consent to enter into this business. Mostly, they were men who had been unsuccessful in other trades. Conspicuous among them was a large firm in Hamburg, who exploited this system in every imaginable way, and was helped, as I have said, by the low postal rates in Germany. Others sprang up soon after, until chaos ruled and there was literally no firm value for any printed matter. The stock in a bookseller's shop fluctuated like the shares in a gold mine; only, unfortunately, printed matter never had the same attraction for an unappreciative public that is contained in a paltry nugget of yellow metal.

It was then that the present rules had to be drawn up, which regulated absolutely and definitely the discount which should be given, which defined "remainders," and which claimed for the Börsenverein supreme legislation in all matters concerning business disputes. It was laid down first of all that the discount, which had risen to 25 per cent., should be abolished in the ordinary way, but that 10 per cent. could be accorded to public institutions and regular customers for cash. If any bookseller were reported to the Börsenverein for having broken this rule, the matter was to be inquired into, with the result that if the case was proved against the accused he was to be turned out of the Börsenverein, which was practically the losing of the bookseller's civil rights.

Let us presume that in some centre a black sheep made its appearance and offered a large stock at a discount to the public, or was even found giving special discounts openly or secretly, thereby attracting buyers, who, the Börsenverein maintains, should be divided in proper proportion among the different booksellers of the place. The fact of the discount having been offered or given would at once be communicated to the head office in Leipzig, whence a warning would be sent to the offender. He would then have an opportunity of explaining his conduct. If such explanation was satisfactory, the result of the inquiry would be communicated to the informant and there the matter would end. If, however, the explanation was not satisfactory, or no explanation was forthcoming, he would then be deprived of the privileges of the Börsenverein; that is to say, an announcement would be sent out to every bookseller and publisher throughout the Empire, stating that he had been excluded from the Börsenverein, and calling upon every member to cease doing business with him in any form or shape whatsoever.

By this circular every publisher's account throughout the length and breadth of the land would be closed to him; and his wholesale agent [or jobber] would at once stop his account and his credit, suing him at common law for whatever sum he might at the moment owe.

So stringent are the instructions of the Bör-senverein on this subject that any publisher or wholesale agent would expose himself to the same treatment as the offending bookseller should he supply him with goods. He would be warned at first, and then similarly excluded, with the effect that, if a publisher, no reputable bookseller in Germany would stock a book of his; if a wholesale agent, the whole of his business would be immediately transferred to a rival firm, of which there are many in Leipzig.

These wholesale houses are packers at the same time, distributing daily enormous quantities of parcels. In Leipzig alone I find a record of forty firms occupied entirely with this business of middleman between publisher and bookseller. K. F. Koehler has 577 agencies, and next to him comes Volckmar with 548, and the rest divide among themselves the remainder of the 3000 retail booksellers strewed all over the country.

There is now not a single little town in Germany which is not well served with a bookseller's shop—a bookseller's really, not simply a stationery and gimcrack shop with a few books added, but a really substantial bookselling establishment with a well-assorted stock of scientific, standard, general, ephemeral, classical, and other literature on its shelves.

The sudden abolition of discount, which had increased from 10 to 15 per cent., and then to 20 and even 25 per cent., naturally gave rise to a good deal of dissatisfaction among a certain portion of the public, who tried to insist on the continuance of the accustomed terms; and in places it seemed for a while as if the local bookseller could not resist the pressure. Therefore it was necessary that he should be protected by the corporate body whose commands he obeyed. For that purpose a carefully prepared circular was given him for distribution among his clients. In it the public were put into possession of the facts of the whole case. It was pointed out that a local bookseller was of inestimable advantage both to the public and the author, because the former was enabled to examine regularly all new publications as they came from the press, while the latter was certain to have his work actually submitted to every possible purchaser. It is also stated that in order to get a living profit on a small turnover, the bookseller must charge full price, and that it is, therefore, necessary, in order to protect the interests not only of the book trade—the publisher and the bookseller—but also the interests of the author and his public, to make all discount-giving illegal. By no other means could the existence of the small local man be assured. It is natural that a large concern with a large turnover can work relatively cheaper than a small concern with a small turnover, and the larger the turnover the cheaper could the thing be done—so that the whole business would ultimately be done by a few gigantic distributing machines working with the cheapest labor available. But, argues the Börsenverein—and very rightly, it seems to me—the more widely you distribute a publication, and the more intelligently you offer it to the public, the larger will be its sale; and the larger its sale, the cheaper can the publisher make it and sell it. Therefore, by the increased sale brought about by the painstaking, intelligent local bookseller, will the public gain likewise in the end; because there will be everywhere a tendency to cheapen the selling prices of books—an advantage, surely for the classes as well as the masses. It is very necessary to emphasize the fact that the selling of books is a different thing altogether from the selling of groceries or cloths or boots. When I want a pair of boots, it matters hugely where I buy those boots, because boots vary from shop to shop, in price and quality and workmanship and finish; but I can buy a copy of the last sensation in literature at any bookseller's shop and be sure that I shall get the identical article in the humblest and the proudest bookselling establishment. It is quite certain that I shall often be tempted to buy a book if it is placed conveniently and temptingly in my way—but I swear I will never buy a pair of boots save for the necessity of covering and protecting my feet!

As I have just said, author and publisher are benefited by this system as well as the bookseller, and ultimately the public; because every new book is actually and intelligently put on sale in every corner of the Empire. It is not left to the chance of a possible customer seeing a possible advertisement. You know yourself best how many sales are lost by that most fatal of answers, "Not in stock." The local bookseller in Germany, particularly in smaller towns, has an establishment which every educated person in the place visits from time to time—weekly generally, on the arrival of the Leipzig parcel. He inspects the newest publications, sees them within a few days of their issuing from the publishers. He is able to handle them, to examine them, and to select from them. Need I assure you that for this advantage he has at length become perfectly satisfied to pay the price which gives a decent living to his great benefactor and friend, the local bookseller?

... When the new rules came into operation, there were grave doubts as to whether the thing could be carried through. The same objections, the same fears, the same hesitations were displayed on the part of publisher and bookseller as we see in this country at the present moment when similar plans are discussed. But fortunately for the German book trade, there were a number of determined men at the head of the Börsenverein, who decided unitedly to persist in their purpose. Daily, firms were denounced in the Börsenblatt as having been proved to have given excessive discounts to the public, and as this was stigmatized as an action detrimental to the welfare of the community of booksellers, they were summarily dealt with; that is to say, the declaration in the Börsenblatt was followed by the closing of every publisher's account throughout the Empire; the closing also of the accounts of wholesale houses and agencies, and a practical inability on the part of the individual bookseller to obtain supplies from anywhere—a boycott you will call it, perhaps, but a salutary one, because the offender was soon led to find out that it was in his interest to throw in his lot with his brethren and not to attempt to cut his neighbor's throat, or to pick his brother's pockets.

I need not say that when the book trade throughout the country discovered that it was no good fighting single-handed against the determined stand taken by a powerful majority, who were backed by the committee of the Börsenverein—breaches of the rules regulating discount became rarer and rarer; and it is at present only occasionally that notices are sent out placing any particular firm under the ban of prohibition.

The last circular I received was dated May the 21st, 1894, denouncing as black sheep three firms. Already, on the following 23d of June, one of the culprits had come to reason, and on that date a circular was issued relieving him of the ban and authorizing the book trade once more to enter into business relations with him. He was followed on February the 4th of this year by another of the three, and I have no record of what may have occurred with regard to the last of the trio—except that I know well enough that he must either break or bend.

As a member of the Börsenverein I have received a list of all the firms who are at present prohibited, and also a form giving on one side the exact rules regulating discounts, and opposite, a tabulated schedule for complaints and denunciations to the committee of the Börsenverein. Since 1887 the Börsenverein has further advanced on its determined road, and it was a few years ago decreed that no discount whatever should be given to the public except 5 per cent. instead of 10 per cent. for cash to schools and institutions.

But while so regulating the attitude of the book trade towards the public, the Börsenverein applied itself at the same time to the regulation of the conditions which should exist between publisher and bookseller. It laid down that in order to carry on a decent and profitable business, the bookseller must be allowed a certain percentage. Publishers are therefore required to give at least a minimum discount off all books; or otherwise they shall inform the public that the bookseller is entitled to something extra by way of commission over and above the advertised price. At all hazard, and by every means the bookseller's position must be secured. Without him the publisher could not reach his customer; without him the student must frequently be without a guide and a friend in his difficult and bewildering choice. It was recognized as essential that the profits of booksellers should be adequate and fair, because only by a decent reward was it found possible to attract a sufficiently educated class of young men to the business. Many assistants—I might almost say most of the assistants—in booksellers' shops in Germany have matriculated at one of the universities, and seldom if ever do you find an assistant who is not capable of compiling a catalogue, for instance, to satisfy the exigent requirements of the Librarian of the British Museum.* The small bookseller and his studious assistant are the makers of those wonderful bibliographies and catalogues which are the pride of the German book trade, the comfort of the student, and the testimony of an intelligent affection for a business which has many splendid rewards besides the reward of money.

[* We wonder whether Mr. Heinemann's admiration for the German book trade organization has not dazzled him, and led him astray in his judgment as to these details. While we understand that the German bookseller expects a higher standard of education from his assistants than his American confrère, it seems to us an overstatement that "most," or even "many," "matriculate at universities." Mr. Heinemann probably has in mind high-schools. Then, too, the statement that an assistant may seldom be found who is not capable of compiling a catalogue to "satisfy the exigent requirements of the Librarian of the British Museum" probably applies more to striking exceptions than to the rule.—Ed. P. W.]

PRINTING IN ICELAND.

In a new catalogue issued by the "Skandinavisk Antiquariat," of Copenhagen, appears the following note upon early Icelandic printing:

"About 1530 the art of printing was introduced into Iceland, Jon Arason, the last Catholic bishop of Holar, formed the resolution of establishing a printing-office, through the medium of which he might hinder the progress of the Reformation in Iceland. A press was first set up at Nupufell under the direction of Sira Jon Mattiasson, a native of Sweden, whom the bishop had brought over for that purpose, and in 1534 this printer finished the first book printed in Iceland, which was 'Breviarium Niderosiense.' He likewise printed the 'Gudspiallabok' of Olafur Hjaltason, the first Lutheran bishop. On the demise of Olafur, the episcopate of Holar devolved on Gudbrandur Thorlaksson, who purchased the printing-office and removed it to his own see, where he was assiduous in the preparation of a good translation of the Sacred Scriptures into the Icelandic language. Under the inspection of this much-respected prelate the first Icelandic Bible was printed at Holar in 1584 by Jon Jonsson, son of Jon Mattiasson, who died in 1567 at a very advanced age. At this period two presses were employed, exclusive of those at Holar, where several valuable books were issued about that time. In the year 1685 the Holar press was removed to Skalholt by Thordur Thorlaksson, at that time bishop of the southern diocese. Forty-six different works proceeded from the press while in his hands, many of which are most important in regard to the history of Iceland. In 1703 Bishop Bjorn Thorleifsson purchased the press and again removed it to Holar, where several historical and religious books were printed during the following years. Since that time the Icelanders have always been in the possession of printing-presses at different places in their island. The 'Catalogue of the Books Printed in Iceland,' in the library of the British Museum, contains a chronological list of printers in Iceland, 1530-1880."

A FRENCH "TRADE LIST ANNUAL."

THE French book trade is to have a Trade List Annual, of which H. Le Soudier, Paris, is to be the publisher. It will be entitled "Bibliographie Française," and will be a collection of the catalogues of French publishers, to which will be added an alphabetical index under authors and also a classified index. Thanks to the unanimous agreement of the publishers, who will furnish their catalogues printed on paper of the same size, weight and quality, the work will proceed rapidly and the volume will appear shortly. For easy reference it has been deemed advisable to bind the supplementary indexes in a separate volume, but the volume will not be sold separately and will be delivered only to subscribers to the main volume. The catalogue will appear yearly and the indexes will be kept to date also. The catalogues will be collated alphabetically and bound in as many volumes as may be necessary to avoid any volume exceeding two kilos in weight, so that it may be sent by mail to all foreign countries under the international postal regulations. The volumes can be had in paper or cloth. They will be 15 francs ($3) in paper and 20 francs ($4) in binding. A rebate of 10 per cent. will be allowed on the first 500 subscriptions. It is estimated the first issue will represent about 150 publishers and about 100,000 titles of current French literature.

LIBRARIAN SPOFFORD'S STATEMENT OF COPYRIGHT FEES.

A STATEMENT of the copyright fees received by Congressional Librarian Spofford in the year and a half ended March 31, 1895, was furnished to the Auditor of the Treasury for the State and other departments on the 26th ult. The salary accounts of the librarian have not yet been settled, and some time will be required to determine just how these accounts stand. Mr. Spofford in rendering his statement to the Auditor of the Treasury, said that he could not yet make a complete statement of his accounts. The last year and a half had been a busy period at the library, and the pressure of business of the offices of librarian and register of copyrights had been so great that the accounts had not been kept up. Notwithstanding their apparent simplicity, he said, the copyright accounts are complicated. Every year about one hundred thousand copyrights are granted, a fee being charged in each case. Many fees are received and credited on the books of the librarian in cash, which finally prove not to be subject to copyright, and in such instances the fee is returned. Many people send labels to the librarian to be copyrighted, whereas they should be sent to the Patent Office. Such cases, more than any others, complicate the accounts and have caused considerable delay. Whatever sum the auditor may find to be still due the Treasury, Mr. Spofford says, will be paid in at once upon notification to him.

BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

NATIONAL NEWSDEALERS' AND BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

A MEETING of the Executive Committee of the 'National Newsdealers' and Booksellers' Association was held at 267 West Thirty-fourth Street, New York, on the evening of July 30. Mr. John E. McBride presided.

Mr. E. Ackermann, after some introductory remarks in which he pointed out the necessity for all dealers in books and newspapers to combine in order that the forthcoming conference shall be a success, recommended for consideration the following points:

"(1.) A motion should be offered and carried, that all members of the National Association should print on their letterheads and billheads the notice, 'Member of the National Newsdealers' and Booksellers' Association of the United States.' The value of this step is apparent.

"(2.) A motion should be offered and carried, that the Executive Committee should exercise all possible means to induce publishers not to sell their publications to any dealer who allows a larger discount than 20 per cent. off the retail price to the public; such discount to be allowed only conditionally, as for instance, to teachers, libraries, clubs, or special large buyers. Also, that all publishers should supply their publications to jobbers only under contract not to sell to undersellers. It may be suggested to publishers to print this condition on all their billheads, thus rendering liable the dealers who accept bills under such contract. Dealers who continue to cut prices shall be made known to the trade, and, if members of the association, shall be expelled from it and forfeit all privileges the association may confer. Publishers who refuse to adopt this rule shall be cautioned that in doing so their names will be made known to all members of the association, who will henceforth slight their publications by not pushing them, not keeping them in stock, and only supplying them on special orders from their customers. If publishers shall determine to allow no trade discount higher than 25 per cent. off the retail prices on any quantity, however large, the retailer should not allow any discount on such publications to the public.

"(3) A motion should be offered and carried, that the National Association should open a central office in New York, to act as a shipping agency and clearing-house for the convenience of out-of-town booksellers and publishers. All orders, circulars, etc., addressed to the publishers and booksellers, should be sent to this office, where they shall be distributed, and where all enclosures for out-of-town retailers and publishers shall be sent, to be forwarded together to the respective consignees. Out-of-town publishers shall send their goods as per orders received from their clients, prepaid to such clearing-house in bulk, that is all packages separately packed and addressed to their customers shall be sent together in one box. In cases where retailers have no account with dealers the C. O. D. bills shall be paid for them by the office, provided the dealers have deposited sufficient cash with the office."

In this way, Mr. Ackermann claims, "dealers will come more into direct touch with the publishers, who hitherto perhaps have not had any idea of the distribution of their publications nor of their customers' ability to handle their books; and who might be more apt and willing to favor these dealers by special terms, privileges of return, exchange, etc.; and lastly the shipping expenses for retailers and publishers would be greatly reduced.

"(4) The Executive Committee should work out a plan of operation, make as accurate as possible an estimate of the cost of such an institution to be submitted at the next annual meeting. The cost shall be paid by the association, and its members taxed according to the amount of the business done by them through this central office. Dealers who are not members of the association may become clients of the proposed clearing-house by paying a certain commission (5% or less, if possible) on the amount of their bills which may pass through this clearing-house. Later on, if the necessity should arise, the National Association might, with the consent of the members at an annual meeting, open a second office for the Western business in Chicago or some other convenient locality.

"(5) The Executive Committee should be instructed to submit to the postmaster general a request to extend the privilege of returning 4th class matter at the one cent a pound rate, which is now granted only to the American News Company and its branches to the exclusion of the rest of the book and news trade."

A committee is to report upon these suggestions at the annual conference. Mr. Van Heusen was elected chairman of the New York contingent of the National Association, and Mr. Cadby was elected secretary.

NEW YORK NEWSDEALERS' PROTECTIVE AND BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION.

THE New York Newsdealers' Protective and Benevolent Association, at a regular meeting held at 267 West Thirty-fourth Street, New York, on the evening of July 30, elected the following officers: James G. McMurray, president; M. Edward Goldie, vice-president; W. Heckmann, recording and financial secretary; J. F. Gleason, treasurer, and Ellis Zofnass, sergeant-at-arms.

The following were also appointed as delegates to attend the National Convention of Newsdealers, to be held in Brooklyn on Aug. 13 and 14: James G. McMurray, Joseph Morrison, W. J. Speckmann, J. G. Walsh, M. Edward Golde, J. F. Gleason, Ellis Zofnass, A. Netter, Morris Band, and Charles Resink. Twenty-five new members were elected, making the association 150 strong. A committee was appointed to see that the Board of Aldermen grant permits for stands for members of the association.

NORTHWESTERN BOOKSELLERS' AND NEWSDEALERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE annual meeting of the Northwestern Booksellers' and Newsdealers' Association has been postponed until next year. The present officers will stay in office for another term.

COMMUNICATIONS.

THE EVIL OF FICTITIOUS PRICES.

RICHMOND, VA., July 22, 1895.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

SIR: Mr. Lowdermilk has voiced the views of every bookseller in the United States, I think. The greatest drawback to the dealer has been the fictitious prices. To illustrate: a few days ago a customer asked the price of a book; "$1.50" was quoted. The customer handed the clerk a letter from the publisher offering to mail the identical book for $1.25, notwithstanding the fact that his advertised price was $1.50. Rather than lose the sale the book was sold for $1.25. I have no doubt that many of the trade have the same experience.

You should prevail upon the publishers mentioned in your editorial, to let his or their name be known to the trade. It is a pleasure to handle such publishers' books and to push them, knowing that your interest is being looked after as well as his.

It is hoped that all the medical publishers will fall in line with Messrs. P. Blakiston, Son & Co.; then the dealer will know that when he quotes a price no one can undersell him. BOOKS.

IN RE THE SOLINUS-CAMERS.

NEW YORK, July 29, 1895.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: The Solinus-Camers of 1520 is not nearly so rare as your "Pick-Up" from the Critic assumes it to be. There are many copies of this edition in the United States. The Murphy copy sold in 1884 for $42, the Rush Hawkins copy in 1887 for $55, and the Ives copy (an extremely fine one) in 1891 for $76.

All of these were sold at public auction in this city. A fine copy, but lacking the map, was sold in Boston last March for $8.25. The last Paris quotation for the book that I have seen was five hundred francs. In fifty years from now the Roumanille copy might be worth fifteen hundred francs. Yours truly, H. B. BULT.

OBITUARY NOTES.

PIERRE LÉON GUSTAVE MEUNIER, one of the proprietors and editors of Le Courrier des Etats Unis, published in New York, died in Paris July 29. He was born in Paris in 1836, and came to this country in 1863 to take charge of the Courrier.

DR. EDWARD BEECHER, the oldest member of the Beecher family and brother of Henry Ward Beecher, died in Brooklyn July 28. He was born in East Hampton, L. I., August 27, 1803. He was the author of an account of the Alton, Ill., riots in 1838; "The Conflict of Ages" (1853), for writing which he expected to be tried for heresy; "The Concord of Ages," which supplemented the previous volume, and set forth the same ideas carried forward to their logical conclusion; and "The Duty of Equable Culture of all the Powers," a plea in favor of physical culture. He was also the author of several other works, one upon "Eternal Punishment," which combats the idea of everlasting retribution for the wicked. Some minor works and many articles in The Christian Union, Congregationalist, and other religious newspapers came from his pen.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MISS MURFREE ("Charles Egbert Craddock") has written a new story. It will appear, under the title of "The Mystery of Witch-Face Mountain," in three numbers of The Atlantic, beginning in September.

MISS MONTRÉSOR, the author of "Into the Highways and Hedges," will soon publish a new novel which will be entitled "The One Who Looks On." She also has in hand another novel which she proposes to entitle "Monsieur Morezes."

GEORGE MEREDITH was reader to Chapman & Hall when Thomas Hardy began his career as a novelist, and the latter declares that he was much encouraged when his manuscript was read and pronounced "promising" by the author of "Diana of the Crossways."

NICHOLAS PAINE GILMAN, author of "Profit Sharing Between Employer and Employed" and "Socialism and the American Spirit," has been appointed Hackley professor of sociology in the Meadville (Pa.) Theological School, and will enter upon his duties October 1. Mr. Gilman's editorial connection with the London Literary World ceases with the issue dated July 27. Rev. Edward Abbott, the preceding editor, who has been abroad for some time, will resume his position with the next issue.

A YOUNG author has recently appeared in the field of letters in Vienna who is destined to make more than an ephemeral success. His name is Richard Beer-Hofmann, and he belongs to that coterie of writers in Vienna known as "Jung Wien." These writers—novelists, essayists, poets and journalists are counted in the flock—resemble in many particulars the symbolists of Paris, save that their work is not so flecked with the circumstance of filth as that of their Parisian confrères. This author has written a book of short stories entitled "Das Kind" ("The Child"), and his treatment of psychological analysis is strictly in keeping with that followed by the disciples of the latter-day school. It is full of stirring episodes, and a vein of gentle pathos running through the entire story gives it a refinement which is worthy the pen of a writer of experience. Beer-Hofmann knows his Vienna as thoroughly as Zola his Paris, and his types, with their consistent environment, put one in the very atmosphere of the "Kaiserstadt." His book will be translated into English and French, and it is said that a well-known publishing house in this city will bring out the former shortly.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

A STATUE of Henri Murger, the famous author of "La Vie de Bohème," was unveiled in the Luxembourg Garden of Paris a few days ago.

JOHN C. WINSTON & CO., 45 No. Seventh Street, Phila., will publish shortly a handsomely illustrated volume entitled "Westminster Abbey and the Cathedrals of England," with text from the writings of Deans Milman, Stanley, Farrar, the present Dean of Westminster, and others. The illustrations will be of views of the Cathedrals and portraits of the dignitaries.

THE executor of the estate of the late Thomas O. H. P. Burnham, the well-known second-hand bookseller, filed his report in the Suffolk County Probate Court July 20. By the will nearly $400,000 is given to charities and other public purposes. The Massachusetts General Hospital, as residuary legatee, receives $263,000; the town of Essex, the testator's native place, gets $40,000; the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, $20,000; Tufts College and the Home for Aged Men in Boston, $10,000 each; nine local charities, $5,000 each, and four others $2,000 each. The entire estate amounted to $602,000.

PROFESSOR CESARE LOMBROSO, to whom Nordau dedicated his "Degeneration," has just brought out a curious volume from the press of Hoepli of Milan, entitled "Grafologia." In it he has collected the curious graffiti surreptitiously scratched upon the walls of prisons and on prison utensils by criminals during their confinement. They consist of pictures, signs and rudely scrawled sentences and words, and are gathered by Lombroso in pursuance of his theory that not only are felons and outcasts generally distinguished by their physical peculiarities, but that even their chirography is typical. This will interest students of anthropometry, and will help to confirm in their belief psychometrists and devotees of the occult.

THE Newspaper Sermon Association was incorporated in Boston, July 26. The purpose of this association is to furnish to the Sunday newspapers readable non-sectarian religious matter. The sermons are to come from "the pens of the best moral and spiritual writers in the world." At the meeting on the day of incorporation the following Advisory Board was elected: The Rev. Dr. George Hedges, dean of the Cambridge Theological School; the Rev. E. A. Horton; the Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale, Robert Treat Paine, Charles H. Taylor, editor of the Boston Globe; John H. Holmes, editor of the Boston Herald; the Rev. Dr. George Hepworth, editor of the New York Evening Telegram; the Rev. James B. Werner, and William E. Harmon. From these an executive committee was appointed, consisting of Charles H. Taylor, the Rev. Dr. Hedges, and William E. Harmon, the latter being elected president of the association for a year.

H. LE SOUDIER, Paris, has issued a handsome memorial volume, compiled by Lavialle de La-meillière, devoted to the death, funeral, solemnities, letters, telegrams, and floral offerings of President Carnot, who was assassinated June 24, and buried July 1, 1894. The book is entitled "Le President Carnot et ses funérailles au Pantheon." The compiler has carefully gone through the vast amount of matter in the daily papers and periodicals of that time, and made a connected abstract of the more important facts and details. This forms the first part. The second is devoted to messages of condolence and telegrams addressed to the Government or to M^{me}. Carnot; the third part describes the imposing funeral ceremonies; and the fourth part gives plans of the Pantheon and descriptions of the more important floral offerings. The whole work is illustrated from drawings made on the spot, and from special photographs. The book is clearly printed on fine paper, and the cover is purple with design in black of the front of the Pantheon.

MILTON H. LEE, known as prisoner 11,386 of the California State Prison, asked permission of the Board of State Prison Commissioners to send out of the prison a book which he has written. He wrote: "My object in addressing you is to ask permission to send out of this prison a book which I have written while here. The title of the book is 'Milt Leow, a Knight of the Golden Circle.'" The author-convict enclosed the preface to his work, in the course of which he says: "The characters depicted were living men, and each scene was enacted as described. . . . Some of the events narrated were described in the papers at the time they occurred. However, the most interesting and the most important were never made known, and are now published for the first time." The author states that his object in writing this book is to show how "the hidden hand" deals with the evil-doer, and that a man's sins will find him out; that whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." The Board declined to permit this blood-curdling volume to leave the prison.

THE BOWEN-MERRILL COMPANY, Indianapolis, Ind., will publish William H. English's "History of Indiana." The work is intended to be a full and exhaustive story not only of the State, but of the two territorial periods preceding the admission of Indiana to Statehood—a history of the Northwest Territory and of the Indiana Territory formed in 1800, with William Henry Harrison as Governor. The territorial history will cover a wide and interesting field, as it involves not only the early exploration and settlement of the country northwest of the Ohio River, extending to the Mississippi on the west and the great lakes on the north, but of the conquest of that vast empire from the British. The two introductory volumes will be devoted mainly to these territorial events, especially to the acquisition of the country from the British, with sketches of the men who achieved it, to be followed in time by five volumes on the subsequent history of the State. These two volumes, introductory to the history of Indiana before its political organization, will be issued during the present year.

THE Edinburgh Bibliographical Society proposes to issue a series of fac-similes illustrative of the history of Scottish printing from its commencement to 1640, forming a full collection of specimens for reference and comparative study. The fac-similes will be reproduced by collotype process of the size of the originals, under the care of the editorial committee—Messrs. E. Gordon Duff, T. Graves Law, J. P. Edmond, W. Cowan, H. G. Aldis, and George P. Johnston. The series will consist of five or six parts, each section being complete in itself and treating of a well-defined period or group of printers, and containing from fifteen to eighteen fac-similes, with brief descriptive notices. The size will be that of Dickson and Edmond's "Annals of Scottish Printing" (demy 4to), to which the series will naturally form an illustrative supplement. The edition will not consist of more than 250 copies. In connection with this scheme it is desired, if possible, to discover the present whereabouts of the unique fragments of "The Acts and Deeds of Sir William Wallace" (1508?) and "The Buke of the Howlat" (1520?), which were discovered by Mr. David Laing, whose description of them is quoted by Messrs. Dickson and Edmond.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE Nickel Magazine for August contains besides interesting stories and instructive articles, reproductions of fine paintings, pictures of curious women in varied attire from all over the world, also fine portraits of popular actresses and actors, among them Fanny Davenport, Richard Mansfield, Della Fox, and Lillian Russell.

The Golfer, the new illustrated magazine devoted to the ancient sport, is publishing a series of articles by the officers of the United States Golf Association. The series has already been contributed to by H. O. Tallmadge, the secretary, and S. L. Parrish, the treasurer. The July number contains much biographical matter illustrated with fine portraits; also considerable gossip about local golfing clubs and their doings. Published by the Golf Publishing Co., 234 Congress St., Boston.

"ON BOARD THE ARK" is the title of a serial story, by Albert Lee, which will be published in Harper's Round Table, beginning in the issue dated August 6. The same number will contain an account of "The Son of Alexander the Great," this being the first of a series of articles on "Great Men's Sons" to be contributed to the Round Table by Elbridge S. Brooks. "The Son of Charlemagne," "The Son of Martin Luther," and "The Son of Napoleon" will be the subjects of other articles in the series.

AN unusually interesting series of articles is now appearing in the Chicago Open Court on "The Prophets of Ancient Israel," by the famous Königsberg professor and theologian, Charles Henry Cornill, one of the foremost authorities on Old Testament literature and history in Europe. These articles portray in an eloquent and popular style the main course and significance of the prophetic religion, and give in rapid but accurate strokes, lifelike reproductions of the great thinkers of Israel and Judah.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

MACMILLAN & CO.'S NEW PUBLICATIONS.

A New Novel by Mrs. Humphry Ward, author of "Marcella," etc.

THE STORY OF BESSIE COSTRELL.

By MRS. HUMPHRY WARD.

Uniform with "Marcella." 1 vol., 12mo, cloth, 75 cents.

"It is the best work Mrs. Ward has done."—Philadelphia Press.

"Mrs. Ward's new story is one of the daintiest little gems I have come across in my weekly literature hunts."—Alan Dale, in the New York World.

"Every one who did not follow the story as it came out in the magazine will be glad of its appearance in book form, and it will find a wide reading, not only for the interest and originality of the story, but for the curiosity of seeing the author in an entirely new vein. As it stands completed, it bears the unmistakable mark of an artist's hand in every way—a remarkably human and lifelike portraiture which will take its place as a small but brilliant gem in the distinguished author's literary crown."—Boston Courier.

"The piece of fiction under consideration is the best short story presented in many years, if not in a decade; presented so thrillingly and graphically, we cannot avoid pronouncing this short tale a masterpiece."—Elmira Telegram.

"Every one shows it to be the work of an artist. The observations of the trained eye, the touches of the skilled writer, were there, and what I like in the story is that no words are wasted in the telling. . . . The interest is too strong for one to lay the book down until it is finished. Mrs. Ward has never written anything more dramatic than this story; the agony of old John over his loss, the tragedy of Bessie's end, thrill the reader as few stories succeed in doing, though many of them make greater efforts."—New York World.

IN PREPARATION:

The American Catalogue

1890-1895.

The new volume of THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE covers the period July 1, 1890, to June 30, 1895. It will be in two divisions, of which the first contains the author-and-title alphabet, and the second the subject alphabet, lists of government and state publications, publications of societies, books in series, etc. It will be delivered, if desired, in parts as ready.

Price, $12.50 in sheets; and $15 in half morocco binding. ($10 in sheets; $12.50 in half morocco, to subscribers paying in advance of publication.)

The edition is 1250 copies only, and there will be no reissue.

... "There is scarcely a bookseller in the country who would hesitate a moment to expend twenty-five dollars in advertising his stock; ought he hesitate a moment about an expenditure that would enable him to sell hundreds of dollars' worth of books in a year? Such an investment would also purchase for him a reputation among his customers for intelligence and trade knowledge that would pay him five times over."—A. D. F. RANDOLPH.

This work is indispensable to the bookstore or library.

THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE,

59 DUANE STREET (P. O. Box 943), N. Y.

Ready at Once.

"A very useful and reliable assistant in our business."—J. B. LIPPINCOTT CO.

"One of the most time-saving and profitable instrumentalities used by the trade."

—AMERICAN NEWS CO.

"The most useful work for reference we have ever had for general use in the trade."

—LEE AND SHEPARD.

"Not a day passes that we do not consult it many times."—A. D. F. RANDOLPH & CO.

THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL

For 1895 (Twenty-Third Year).

Large 8vo. With Duplex Index.

The Trade List Annual for 1895 will contain:

The latest CATALOGUES OF AMERICAN PUBLISHERS, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names and smaller lists at the end of the volume.

These Lists, all bound in one volume, present in their combination so convenient and time-saving a working-tool as to make it indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase or sale of books.

The patent "DUPLEX INDEX" having given such general satisfaction, we are now applying it to all copies of the "Annual." Volumes supplied with the "DUPLEX INDEX" have the alphabet printed on the concave surface as well as on the margin of the page, which enables instantaneous reference, whether the book is open or shut.

Only those subscribing and forwarding amount now are entitled to subscription rate of $1.50; after publication day, and on orders for which we have to collect after that date, the regular price will be $2.00 net.

Remittances should be made by Check, Money Order on New York, or Registered Letter, as we cannot be responsible for any losses. Receipt for remittance will be sent by return mail.

Unless special shipping directions are received, copies ready for delivery will be despatched by express unpaid. Parties so desiring can have their copies sent by mail, or by prepaid book-rate express for $1.00 per copy extra. Address
